Industry veterans announce new chemical dispensing solutions provider

LAVO SOLUTIONS, LLC · SATURDAY, JULY 7, 2018

Chip McAslan and Campbell Dodson, industry veterans with over 30 years of experience in the chemical dispensing market, announced their new company, Lavo Solutions, LLC. Lavo Solutions provides a full line of intuitive, cost effective, and accurate chemical dispensing solutions for the cleaning and hygiene industry. Product categories include proportioning, warewash, drain dosing and commercial laundry. Joining their team are Bob Guilday, former Global Corporate Account Manager at Hydro Systems and Giovanni Camarena, former Product Manager at Knight Equipment.

McAslan, former general manager of Knight Equipment, and Dodson, former North American Sales Director at Hydro Systems, are committed to more than just high quality chemical dispensing equipment. “We believe in connected products, connected processes and connected people,” says McAslan. “There is a huge opportunity in the chemical dispensing market for Lavo to provide effective solutions to our customers. We are truly a solutions partner who customize our offering to each customer, not just an equipment supplier. Our long term strategy includes the development of a full suite of data connected products. These connected products will provide our customers and end-users proof of clean while increasing efficiency of service.”

Dodson agrees. “We have assembled an incredible team with deep experience and knowledge in the chemical dispensing world. Lavo is passionate about delivering new products and a new customer experience to our partners.”

The Lavo product range was developed in partnership with Injecta, a leading Italian manufacturer for over 30 years. “The Lavo team includes some of the top talent in the industry. We are excited to partner with Lavo and offer our complete range of high quality dosing systems for laundry, dishwasher, water treatment and industrial applications,” says Alberto Cavallari, CEO and Owner of Injecta.
